

Vegetable Research Roadshow 2025

The Vegetable Research Roadshow is back for 2025. After the successful inaugural 2024 event, this year's event will update growers on the latest research and give participants a chance to discuss and provide feedback on the results.

Vegetables NZ – with support from Vegetable, Research & Innovation and other vegetable product groups – is hosting the series of workshops across the country. As such, the roadshow will demonstrate the collaborative nature of research in the vegetable sector.

All growers and industry representatives are encouraged to attend.
